Workshop coordinators commented on the social entrepreneurship ecosystem in Muğla: "The development of civil society, which is one of the important areas that feed social entrepreneurship, and the existence of individuals and institutions with high awareness of social and environmental problems make significant contributions to the Bodrum-Muğla social entrepreneurship ecosystem. It has the potential to trigger a system-level transformation, not only at the regional but also at the national level, if the models for co-design and production are disseminated and cooperation and coordination are ensured within the region."
